RelevantView merges with Imperium

Leading digital fingerprinting technology and web site usability firm now integrated with Imperium, a Microsoft Gold Certified Partner

WESTPORT, CT, January 1, 2010 – RelevantView is pleased to announce that effective immediately it has merged with Imperium. Imperium is a leading technology development firm specializing in the design, development, implementation and support of database systems for business intelligence and integrated e-business solutions

RelevantID is the leading industry digital fingerprinting technology for certifying online market research respondent data quality. RelevantView is a proprietary, high-powered, server-based tracking technology that monitors user behavior and activity on websites and other web interface applications. These products will now be services offered by Imperium.

Marshall C. Harrison, the founder of both RelevantView and Imperium remains as CEO of the combined company. “As the founder of both RelevantView and Imperium, it became apparent that we should integrate the businesses into one company. This will enable us to focus on the development of advanced solutions to meet the technological needs of market research, advertising, marketing services, web design, and usability professionals” said Mr. Harrison.

The merger will not change the management or ownership of either company. “As an integrated company, we will continue to provide RelevantID and RelevantView clients with the same level of high quality, innovative, and flexible services they have grown to trust” said Marshall.
